AMI International Teams with Jacob Fleming Conferences as Market Information Partner for International OPV 2010

Bremerton, WA – February 25, 2010 – AMI International announced today it has joined Jacob Fleming Conferences as the official Market Information Partner for the International Offshore Patrol Vessels (OPV) conference to be held 19-21 May in Brussels.

As the first ever dedicated market information partner for this conference, AMI will offer unique expert insights into future naval and maritime security market trends related to OPVs, adding immense value to all event participants.

Bob Nugent, Vice President, Advisory Services, AMI notes: “International OPV 2010 is very timely. The OPV market around the world remains among the strongest sectors in the naval market, showing consistently strong growth to meet the demand for better offshore security among the world’s maritime nations.”

“AMI estimates the global market for new construction OPVs over the next 20 years will be worth over 25B USD, with more than 200 new OPVs projected for construction through 2030.”

Bob and Pat Bright, AMI’s VP for Market Intelligence Subscriptions, will be at International OPV to present in-depth information on future naval and maritime security market prospects.
